I have received a number of what are called “misty vortex” photos over the years, which usually turn out to be exhaled breath or cigarette smoke. Sometimes one can even imagine seeing faces in the better ones thanks to pareidolia. However, this photo is different.

The outline profile of a man can be clearly seen, and is even at spots almost opaque. It’s almost like a human “bubble” in the process of being formed, making it a rare and curious photo.

The woman who took the photo did not see anything at the time (she was taking photos of her living room to show her mother how she’d rearranged the furniture) and spotted this image later. She believes it reminds her of her late father, who died in the home in 2007, a photo of whom she thoughtfully forwarded for a comparison.

Naturally, such comparisons are suspect and generally an exercise in subjectivity, but in this case, I can clearly make out a resemblance between the gentlemen in the photo on the right and the ghostly apparition on the left: same chin, lips, nose, etc.

If legitimate, this photo could very possibly have captured a ghost in the process of manifesting, perhaps by utilizing the ambient electrical energy in the air. The woman also claims the home to be a hotbed of paranormal activity, further bolstering her claim. In any case, far too curious a photo not to take seriously. *(Used with permission.
