It is extremely rare to receive spirit photos in sequence, so when these photos arrived in my e-mail I was both intrigued and astonished. The two selfies, shot by the smiling 6-year old in the photos, were shot mere seconds apart and seem to show an eyeless apparition hovering over the girl's right shoulder. What's remarkable is that the entity is in both photos--which is practically unheard of--though less evident in the first photo (at top left). It's almost as if it is drawn to the camera and is moving closer to take a look. What's also strange is that while I can make out what appears to be glasses on the apparition, there are apparently no eyes behind the glasses, making it especially spooky.

The mother of the girl who took the photos claims there is no evidence of paranormal activity in the home and was initially uncertain who the apparition was. After some thought, however, she noticed a strong resemblance between it and her late grandfather, and thoughtfully sent a photo of the gentleman for a comparison. Like the apparition in photo #66, I have to admit to seeing a remarkable resemblance between the two--especially in regards to the glasses.

If legitimate, this is the first time I've had the same ghost appear in two separate photos, as well as the first time I've seen a ghost manifest reading glasses, which suggests that spirits are quite capable of manifesting those elements of themselves which were a significant part of their earthly personality, such as eye wear. *(Used with permission.
